

INDIVIDUAL MEMBERSHIP

Services for Australian Rural and Remote Allied Health (SARRAH) is focused on improving health outcomes of people who live in rural and remote Australia. SARRAH communicates, collaborates and builds community around addressing significant rural health issues as a result of workforce challenges, lack of access and poor recognition of the support provided by allied health professionals.

You can join SARRAH's community through our individual membership program where you can collaborate with a range of like minded individuals and/or students to improve access to high quality preventative healthcare across rural and remote Australia.

SARRAH's individual membership delivers a range of services and benefits to members including but not limited to:

- Lobbying federal and state politicians on behalf of our members' interests.
- Invitations to consult and/or collaborate on aspects of SARRAH's advocacy and policy initiatives.
- Participation in SARRAH workshops on policy and program initiatives.
- Engaging rural workforce agencies, primary health networks, academics, universities and service providers.
- Opportunity to join the Board of Directors or the advisory committee.
- Opportunity to be nominated for the SQUAWK Award.
- Invitations to contribute and participate in SARRAH AGMs, conferences, projects, programs and events.
- Opportunity to network, share information and design solutions through SARRAH programs.
- Subscription to SARRAH newsletters, publications, information and communication.
- Opportunity to contribute content to SARRAH's communication activities and publications
- Discounted access to advertising opportunities through SARRAH
- Discounted and/or subsidised event registration rates for SARRAH organised events.
- Discounted access to third party resources and events through association and alliances established by SARRAH.
- Opportunity to receive discounts, incentives and unique benefits to individual SARRAH members.
- Opportunity for tax-deductible contributions and donations.
